The Bowling Alley Sound to Release Sophomore EP (46 West)

(GREATER NYC AREA) February 9, 2017 – On February 24, 2017, the Bowling Alley Sound will release their sophomore record The Bowling Alley Sound on their label 46 West. It is a digital only release and will be available on all major platforms.

This record follows their 2014 debut release Metaphysical You. The music is reminiscent of long journeys and late nights. The band experimented with new compositional techniques and even included vocals in the EP's closing track, "The Conversation of the Street Lights Will Pass As Quickly As Our Words." Fans of artists such as Do Make Say Think, Kaki King, and ambient minimalist music will find themselves in familiar waters.

The Bowling Alley Sound is a five piece instrumental band consisting of guitar (Mike Basil), drums (Nick Looney), bass (Andrew Capuano), violin (Isaac Rubins), and trumpet (Danny Molloy). The band was originally formed in order to bring Mike Basil's songwriting to life in their debut record and has since been active in the northern New Jersey music scene. They are pleased to bring you their latest record, The Bowling Alley Sound.
